

When I Become Confused

Written by David Leask and Robert Keiller

When I become confused
No longer get the news
The bridge between synapses collapses
Words fall through
All the yellows turn to blues
When I become confused

All the where's and when's
Start sitting on the fence
And the touchstones of time get buried inside
No beginning, no end
A disappearing point of view
When I become confused

All of my treasures and memories banked
All the heartaches and "I love you's"
A beautiful life with everything ... to lose
When I become confused

As I sink inside this shell
Before you bid me farewell
Remember I'm still here
And as long as you're near
I'd love to be held
And I'll sing my way through
When I become confused
