

Dog (everybody learns)

Avril Jensen

The dog's been biting my hand

A little harder everyday

Thinking I'm a stray

The dog's been barking all night

A little louder every time

Did somebody cross the line

Am I the stranger in the yard

Can you smell it on me

Are you to tear me apart

Everybody learns eventually

The dog's been learning new tricks

Now it tells me how to quit

Smoking cigarettes

The dog wants me to forget

All the things I can't forgive

And it makes me think

Am I the stranger in my heart

Can you smell it on me

Are you to tear her apart

Everybody learns eventually

The dog's been feeling sick

I've been seeing it less and less

Maybe it's for the best

The dog's been laying down

Near the vet we called from the town

Not making a sound

I'm not a stranger in the yard

You could smell it on me

I am a friend to you now

Everybody learned eventually

Everybody learns eventually

I miss the marks on my skin

Everybody learns eventually

I miss the marks on my skin
